New England Deaconess Hospital
Boston, Massachusetts

pulse

VOLUME 20 — NUMBER 4 JANUARY 1967

CHRISTMAS WRAP-UP

Events that are traditional usually remain so because they are welcomed and enjoyed. Miss Ellen D. Howland, Director of Nursing, gave her tenth Christmas Tea on the afternoon of Monday, December 19 in Harris Hall. She and her mother made all the refreshments including candy, cookies and a warm cinnamon punch called "Whale Ale." Decorations on the serving table and the mirror were also made by Mr. R. D. Lowry, Executive Director, serves punch to employees at the Hospital Christmas Party.

Miss Howland. The tea is an open house to which everyone is invited.

The Hospital held its traditional Christmas Dinner for employees and their families in the Cafeteria on Christmas Day. Both the Thanksgiving and the Christmas dinners are put on by the Dietary Department. About 400 people attended the Thanksgiving dinner and over 350 came to the Christmas feast. The task of preparing and serving these dinners is handled expertly by members of the Dietary Department in addition to their normal work. Miss Charlotte L. Donaldson, Director of Dietetics, said that although the number eating is very large, the staff undertakes the project in high spirit and with a success that is always highly complimented.

On the day of the Hospital Christmas party, Wednesday, December 21, Vernon Truell led the Pathology Glee Club on a caroling tour of the Hospital. Beginning in Palmer basement, the choir sang on the Deaconess, Central, Baker and Palmer floors. From the Palmer lobby they traveled across Pilgrim Road in the cold, drizzly weather and sang at Norwich House. They continued to the lobby in Central Building, where a group of visitors, doctors and employees gathered to hear their finale. Miss Linda M. Lessor and Mrs. Sharon H. Brondos served as pianists during the three weeks of rehearsal. Miss M. Winifred Murray and Mrs. Margaret M. McLean helped procure the music and Robert J. Hart in the Print Room duplicated enough copies for everyone. The Hospital supplied folders for the music, giving the Glee Club a more professional touch. Mr. Truell's group, which started its caroling tradition in 1964 with 12 people, had 43 participants this year.

The Christmas Party highlighted Christmas Week at the Hospital. Vic Donato on the accordion and

First in line Mrs. Corinne M. Nurse, Nursing Aide, receives her complimentary box of candy from Mr. W. Clifford Fisher, Purchasing Agent.

Jim Cali on the guitar provided entertainment. Mr. W. Dean Holdeman, Personnel Director, headed the Party Committee, which consisted of Miss Ellen Adams, Assistant Director, Miss Charlotte L. Donaldson, Director of Dietetics, Mr. Theodore F. Koch, Assistant Director and Mr. Hubert D. Sycamore, Administrative Assistant. All the department heads shared the responsibility of serving the punch and eggnog.

Other parties which added to the spirit of Christmas included a Christmas Coffee sponsored by the Department of Surgical Services and a Christmas Open House held in the main lobby on Sunday, December 11 by the Friends.

DEACONESS GRADUATES NINE OPERATING ROOM TECHNICIANS

Graduating Operating Room Technicians are (left to right) Miss Donna L. Fitzgerald, Miss Rita M. Mailhot, Miss Judith A. Cunningham, Mrs. Mary C. Budrick, Miss Margaret A. Burns, Instructor, Mr. Robert E. Corrow, Miss Susan A. Cresto, Mrs. Isabelle Halloran, Miss Mary L. Savosik and Miss Cheryl J. Abatsis.

Skilled assistants are constantly needed in the hospital operating rooms to supplement the operating room nursing staff. New England Deaconess Hospital instigated a six month course in 1958 to train operating room assistants specifically for employment within the Hospital. In 1963 the course was expanded to one year, the class size allowed to grow and a decision made to train technicians for employment in other hospitals. This year nine surgical technicians were graduated as members of the largest class to date.

Miss Margaret A. Burns, Associate Director of Surgical Services, developed the curriculum, which combines theoretical instruction with practical experience and offers a basic study of anatomy, microbiology, ethics, legal aspects and aseptic techniques. As the student masters information, he is allowed to scrub as a member of the team in progressively more complicated operations. The first year a student averages about 165 scrubs for every type of operation except cardiac surgery, and he has an opportunity to observe and assist the circulation nurse with that. The student is required to write a case study of a patient's pre- and post-operative history, which he presents to the class.

Upon successful completion of the program, the student receives a certificate indicating that he is a qualified surgical technician, prepared to practice under the direct supervision of a graduate registered nurse. Although he is not quali-

(Continued on Page 4)

Music sets the tone at the Christmas Party. Seated clockwise at the center table are Nancy L. Gilman, Sue Ellen Helie, Martha M. Murphy, Leona C. Manoog, Marion L. Morgan, Robert F. Fay and Pamela A. Braley, all from Patient Service.

THREE EMPLOYEES RETIRE AT THE END OF DECEMBER

Mr. Charles F. Schraub, President of the Alpha Credit Union, presents a check to Mrs. Edythe M. Phelps, who served as Clerk of the Credit Union for eight years, while Mr. R. D. Lowry, Executive Director, (left) and Mr. Milton B. Nelson, Patient Service Manager, (right) look on.

Mr. R. D. Lowry, Executive Director, stands next to Mrs. Adell A. Reed and chats with her husband, Mr. Richard A. Reed (left) and her brother, Mr. William Lopez, who attended her retirement party.

MRS. PHELPS LEAVES CASHIERS

The people in the Cashier Office, as anyone who goes there to cash a check knows, are usually smiling and friendly, but one day last month everyone seemed rather sad, because it was Mrs. Edythe M. Phelps last working day. Mrs. Phelps retired on December 30th after more than 19 years as a cashier. Happily, however, there were some parties in her honor.

The Hospital sponsored a farewell tea in Harris Hall and Mr. R.D. Lowry, Executive Director, presented her with a gift from the Hospital. Mr. Milton B. Nelson, Patient Service Manager, gave her a money tree on behalf of all her friends and Mr. Charles F. Schraub, representing the Alpha Credit Union for which Mrs. Phelps served as Clerk for eight years, presented her with a check. Miss Margaret Kehoe, Head Cashier and Mrs. Margaret H. Wilson, Pharmacy Store, poured. Attending a special luncheon with Mrs. Phelps at the "Top of the Hub" on December 30 were Mr. Lowry, Mr. Nelson, Miss Bertina Terkelsen and Miss Kehoe.

Mrs. Phelps was graduated from Dickinson High School and Fisher Business School in Jersey City. She was transferred to Boston, when she worked for Employers Liability Insurance, and was married soon afterwards. She went to work at the Women's Educational and Industrial Union where she stayed for twenty-two years, during which time her first husband died and she remarried.

Mrs. Phelps lives in Newton, and is treasurer of the Mount Vernon Congregational Church in Boston where she was Missionary Chairman for many years. She enjoys gardening, knitting and crocheting. Mrs. Phelps expresses her deep appreciation to everyone who made her years here so pleasant and contributed so generously to her retirement gifts.

DIETARY LOSES MRS. REED

After every paycheck for sixteen years Mrs. Adell A. Reed went home and said she thought it was about time to retire. But the next day she would come back and do her part as a member of the Dietary Department. First she worked on the steam table, dishing up the hot meals in the cafeteria, then she helped with the desserts and for the past five years she has been responsible for the coffee. She used about twelve pounds of coffee every morning for thirsty employees, but she secretly admits that she serves instant at home.

Mrs. Reed's retirement tea was sponsored by the Hospital and was held in the Cafeteria. Mrs. Catherine Griffin and Mrs. Helen M. Murphy from the Dietary Department poured for the event. Mr. R. D. Lowry, Executive Director, presented Mrs. Reed with a Revere Bowl on behalf of the Hospital, and Miss Monica Stephenson, Dietary Cashier, gave her a money corsage from her friends throughout the Hospital.

Mrs. Reed went to Germany three summers ago to visit one of her sons. She has nine children and 27 grandchildren. Her hobbies include bowling and she is a Past Grand Matron of the Prince Hall Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star. She is now the Grand Lecturer of that organization. She and her husband, Richard, live in Roxbury.

ILLNESS FORCES MRS. SUMMERS TO RETIRE FROM HOUSEKEEPING

Mrs. Mary Summers had to leave the Housekeeping Department when her arthritis became especially bothersome. She began at Deaconess as a maid in Harris Hall in 1946 and then worked at the Kent Street nurses' residence for about seven years. Her last position was the responsibility of cleaning 25 Autumn Street, an apartment house for the laboratory technicians.

Mrs. Summers lives in Brighton with her daughter, Virginia, a graduate registered nurse. She has another daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Doherty in Winchester, a son, Bernard in Philadelphia and six grandchildren.

Mrs. Summers did not want a Hospital Tea, but she welcomed a letter of concern and thanks from Mr. R. D. Lowry, Executive Director. Miss Ellen Adams, Assistant Director, presented her with a gold pin on behalf of the Hospital and the laboratory technicians at 25 Autumn Street gave her a gift of money.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

Alpha Credit Union Holds Annual Meeting

At the Annual Meeting of the Alpha Credit Union it was stressed that although many outside banks have been affected by a tight money market, the Credit Union still offers personal loans at 6% add-on interest and completely secured loans at 4½%. The meeting was held on November 16 in Joslin Auditorium with Mr. Philip P. Pacella, Vice-President, presiding.

Members in attendance re-elected Mr. Dean A. Annis, Mr. John R. Johnston, Miss Marjorie R. Pond and Mr. Pacella as directors for three year terms. Mr. William E. Branson was newly elected to fill the expired term of Miss Edythe M. Phelps, who retired from the Hospital; and Miss Susan Dunlop was elected to fill the unexpired term of Miss Anne Howard who resigned. Directors remaining in office were Miss Margaret A. Burns, Mr. Edward F. Brown, Miss Dorothy V. Blanchard, Miss Esther M. Farrington, Mr. W. Clifford Fisher, Miss Marion E. Haskell, Mr. Milton B. Nelson, Mr. Donald L. Sabine and Mr. Charles F. Schraub.

The directors are responsible for the election of officers and on December 20th they named Mr. Schraub, President; Mr. Pacella, Vice-President; Miss Farrington, Clerk, Mr. Annis, Treasurer and Mr. Brown, Assistant Treasurer.

New officers of the Alpha Credit Union are (left to right) Mr. Charles F. Schraub, President; Mr. Philip P. Pacella, Vice-President; Miss Esther M. Farrington, Clerk; Mr. Dean A. Annis, Treasurer and Mr. Edward F. Brown, Assistant Treasurer.

DOCTORS' DOINGS . . .

Dr. Clifford C. Franseen, Surgeon, Active Staff, lectured on the "Treatment of Cancer of the Lip and Mouth by Electrocoagulation" at the Mercy Radiation Center at Misericordia Hospital, Philadelphia, on November 9.

Dr. S. Peter Gibb, Physician, Associate Staff, received an Honorable Mention Award for his exhibit, "Gluten Enteropathy and Skeletal Disease", at the American College of Gastroenterology in Philadelphia, October 24-27.

Dr. Carl S. Hoar, Jr., Surgeon, Active Staff, published an article in the October 1966 issue of Surgery, Gynecology and Obstetrics, Volume 123, pages 826-833 entitled "Experience with Femoral Arteriography in Diabetic Peripheral Vascular Disease."

Dr. Robert E. Leach, Surgeon, Associate Staff, presented an exhibit on Acromionectomies at the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons in San Francisco, January 13-15.

Dr. Richard L. Miner, Surgeon, Associate Staff, was elected a member of the International College of Dentists at their annual meeting in November.

Dr. Wilford B. Neptune, Surgeon, Active Staff, presented a paper on Reoperation For Bronchogenic Carcinoma" at Mount Sinai Hospital in New York on December 5; and on December 17 he discussed the "Diagnosis and Overall Management of Carcinoma of the Esophagus" with Dr. Joseph Marks, Radiologist-in-Chief, at the Surgical Staff Meeting of the Providence Hospital in Holyoke.

Dr. Morris J. Nicholson, Anesthesiologist, Active Staff, lectured on "Shock — Current Concepts and Misconcepts" at the meeting of the Pentucket Association of Physicians in Haverhill, January 12.

MR. EMERY; MR. ROBB DIE AT DEACONESS

Mr. Walter Emery and Mr. Emmett Robb, two very long and dear friends of the Deaconess, died within the walls of the Hospital this month.

Mr. Walter Emery retired as the Laundry Manager in May of last year after twenty-two years of service at Deaconess. As a testimony to the respect and love he had earned, three special functions were held in his honor. The employees in Laundry gave him a surprise luncheon and presented him with a portable television set. The Hospital gave him a tea and the Department Heads held a dinner party at the Brae Burn Country Club.

Mr. Emery was the man who developed the Deaconess laundry service into an award winning department. In 1962 our laundry was honored as the most efficient hospital laundry in the United States and Mr. Emery was voted Laundry Manager of the year. He was elected president of the New England Laundry Manager's Association in 1963.

Born in Portsmouth, New Hampshire, Mr. Emery was graduated from the State School of Engineering and eventually started his own laundry in Portsmouth. He gained experience by working with his father and uncle, who had their own laundries, and when he was in charge of 17 laundries all at the same time in the Caribbean during World War II. His interests included baseball, jazz, bowling and bridge. He served as the senior warden at Saint Paul's Episcopal Church in Brookline for many years.

Mr. Emery leaves his wife, Mary, two children, John and Mrs. Frances Davidson, both of Newton and four grandchildren. Funeral services were held on Thursday, December 29 with The Reverend Murray W. Dewart officiating.

Mr. Emmett Robb had been associated with the Hospital since 1934, when he was an operating room nurse in the Palmer Building. After a few years absence he returned to work on Deaconess Three North. Ironically he became ill in Palmer, where he began his work, and died in the new Coronary Care Unit, which was previously Deaconess 301, a male ward, where he spent most of his time. Mr. Robb died very suddenly, but he was the type of person who would have considered himself fortunate to be professionally active until death.

Mr. Robb was a registered nurse and was graduated from the Carney Hospital in 1932. He served with the United States Army in England during World War II and his name is on the Deaconess Honor Roll. He was active in the Alpha Credit Union in the late 40's. A good-natured and popular man, he had a sixth sense as far as getting along with patients, staff members and the student nurses. Mrs. Jane Christie Chapman, Miss Virginia O. Diggdon, Miss Ellen D. Howland, Miss Marjorie R. Pond and Miss Lois M. Preston all remember working under him as students. For the last few years he handled dressings and treatments for genito-urinary patients.

Mr. Robb shared an apartment for over 40 years with Mr. John Connolly. Mr. Connolly says that letters are coming in from former patients and countless friends. The body was taken to the Brady Funeral Home and then to Saint Andrew's Church in Jamaica Plain. Mr. Robb was buried in his family's plot at Saint Patrick's Cemetery in Watertown on December 27.

HYPNOSIS TECHNIQUES USED IN RABBIT RESTRAINT AT C.R.I.

Step One — Mr. Rapson firmly supports the rabbit on a table, while speaking in a rhythmic monotone.

Step Two — Mr. Rapson strokes the rabbit by applying a gentle pressure.

In research studies with animals the results often depend on the means used for restraint. Mr. Warren Rapson, Animal Quarters Supervisor at the Cancer Research Institute, who is experienced with various breeds of animals and their usefulness for investigative studies, has succeeded in placing a rabbit in a somnolent state which resembles hypnosis.

Mr. Rapson rhythmically repeats the words, "e-a-s-y, e-a-s-y," while firmly supporting the rabbit on a table. While the animal is on its back he slowly strokes its abdomen in the direction of the hair and in a minute or two the rabbit begins to relax and its breathing becomes less rapid and deeper until it remains motionless, even though the stroking and monotone is stopped.

In this somnolent state simple laboratory procedures such as medications or injections as well as more complex operations can be performed without discomfort. The rabbit shows no apprehension or muscular twitching around the site of the injection. Mr. Rapson's method has an advantage over mechanical restraining devices or anesthetics as it is less hazardous and eliminates drug reactions.

Mr. Rapson has been associated with the animal facilities at C.R.I. since 1951 and during these years the animal colony has been considered one of the best in the country, not only from the standpoint of a rigid schedule of housekeeping, but because the production of rats is such that a researcher can plan an experiment over a period of years and not be hindered by any changes in heredity factors. In cooperation with Dr. T. C. Jones, who is Director of Pathology at Angell Memorial Animal Hospital and our visiting veterinarian, Mr. Rapson has developed a pure-bred strain of rats officially known as the NEDH Inbred Strain of Rats. This is comparable to having a breed of dogs accepted by the American Kennel Club.

Along with the responsibility and daily chores of the animal colony for which Mr. Rapson depends greatly on the competence of Tom Cullen, Brian Bernier and James Billingsley, the animal caretakers, Mr. Rapson has been active in the Animal Care Panel, being one of the first few to receive a certificate as an Animal Quarters Supervisor. At the 1964 Annual Meeting of the Animal Care Panel he demonstrated his hypnosis of rabbits to a live audience and on closed-circuit television. A paper of his work was published in the 1966 Yearbook of Veterinarian Medicine.

Step Three — The rabbit is relaxed and in a somnolent state resembling hypnosis.

PROFILE

Mrs. Helen G. Goodridge plays the organ, one of her many interests.

Few human beings can say they have never been bored, but Mrs. Helen G. Goodridge's capacity for enjoying people and projects makes her an exception. Her life is energetic, inclusive and entertaining.

A secretary in Pathology's medical record division, Mrs. Goodridge has been at Deaconess for sixteen years. She walked into Deaconess on the spur of the moment and has been here ever since.

Music has been valuable and essential to Mrs. Goodridge, and at home she has a spinet electric organ. Her organ has four stationary and two rotating speakers in it, which is rare for a spinet, and can produce the sounds of chimes, bongo drums, and even a railroad train. The sounds can be varied from the brusque noises of automobile horns to the softest strains of violins. Whatever the type of music preferred, whatever the style of the performer, the organ meets every requirement.

Mrs. Goodridge studied the pipe organ under John Hermann Loud at the Park Street Congregationalist Church in downtown Boston. The now deceased Mr. Loud was a strict perfectionist who gave a deeper dimension to her musical understanding. She also served as the organist at the Trinity Baptist Church in Brockton.

Involved in many pursuits, Mrs. Goodridge does needlepoint and has made the upholstery for her piano bench as well as several pictures. She dabbles in the art of textile printing, which is the tracing of stencil designs on table cloths and lobster bibs. She used to bowl on the Hospital Bowling Team and she sings with the Pathology Glee Club.

Mrs. Goodridge has taken Harvard extension courses in psychology, and she enjoys reading novels and poetry. When Hope Emerson, a descendant of Ralph Waldo Emerson was employed in the bacteriology laboratory here, the two would spend their free moments talking about his works. Robert Frost is another of her favorite poets.

Mrs. Goodridge is married to Maynard Goodridge, a carpenter in the Maintenance and Engineering Department. They live in Needham and commute to work together.

Operating Room Technique

(Continued from Page 1)

fied to take the sponge count, give medications or accept doctors orders, he functions as an integral member of the surgical team.

Miss Burns is chairman of a national authorship committee of the Association of Operating Room Nurses, responsible for producing a manual to standardize training programs offered for operating room technicians. Numerous hospitals offer various types of good programs, but conformity is necessary so that those who graduate can be registered or licensed for nationwide acceptance. The Deaconess feels it has developed a program whose graduates should have no difficulty being accepted for registration when this becomes available.

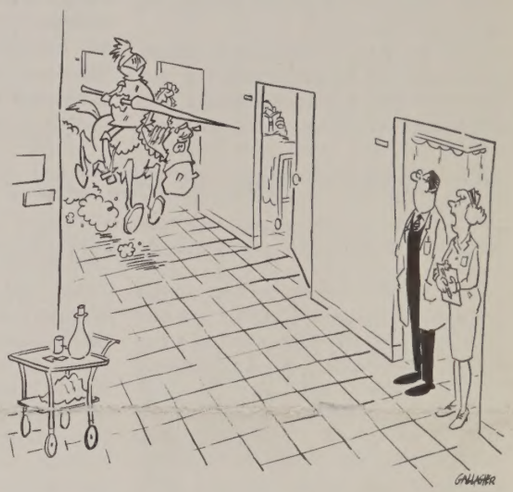
The 1966 graduating class received their certificates on December 21 during the Christmas Coffee sponsored by the Department of Surgical Services. Cosmetic sets for the women and fountain pens for the male graduates were gifts of the department. Miss Cheryl J. Abatsis, Mrs. Mary C. Budrick, Miss Susan A. Cresto and Miss Mary L. Savosik will remain at Deaconess. Others are employed as follows: Mr. Robert E. Corrow, Department of Neurosurgery, Lahey Clinic; Miss Judith A. Cunningham, Norwood Hospital; Miss Donna L. Fitzgerald, Massachusetts Hospital School; Mrs. Isabelle Halloran, Waltham Hospital and Miss Rita M. Mailhot, Goodell Sanford Hospital in Sanford, Maine.

MRS. BROOKS RESIGNS — VOLUNTEER FOR 20 YEARS

In 1946 Miss Louise Brooks started as a volunteer for two days a week. She served in Central Supply and then in the Blood Bank. After a donor gave blood she offered tea and cookies in what was laughingly called "Brooks' Tea Shop." She used to come in on Sundays to register donors, and she has volunteered time in the Coffee Shop, Gift Shop and former Out-patient Cancer Clinic in Palmer.

The last few years she has given time to Central Supply. At home she has made millions of bronchoscopy sponges, which are formed by folding gauze to less than one-half a square inch. Miss Brooks was the only volunteer who made these and now they must be purchased.

Miss Brooks lives near Cleveland Circle and the difficulty she has commuting to Deaconess is one reason for her resignation. She plans to spend more time with her friends and in fixing up her apartment.



"Here comes the new head housekeeper."

Reprinted by permission from RN Magazine.
Copyright © December, 1966,
RN Publications, Inc., Oradell, N. J.

Down the Aisle

Engaged . . .

Miss Noreen Gandolfo, Histology Technician, Cancer Research Institute, to Mr. James L. Gurry.

Miss Helen J. Pandiscio, Medical Secretary, Cancer Research Institute, to Mr. John B. DuPont, Jr.

Miss Sarah F. Summons, Staff Nurse, to Mr. Jesse P. Chapman, choral conductor and music theory teacher at Greenwich High School in Greenwich, Connecticut, in June.

Married . . .

Miss Barbara J. Monsen, Junior Accountant, Administrative Systems, to Mr. Clark H. Shaw, a student at Suffolk University, on December 17.

Miss Susan Pike, Staff Nurse, Coronary Care Unit, to Mr. Richard R. Regan, a student at Boston University, on November 26.

WE WELCOME . . .

Newest full-time employees include: Mr. John A. Costa, Mr. Donald Deiter, Administrative Services; Mr. William G. Hamway, and Mr. James L. Langan, Data Processing; Mrs. Sharon Brondos, Miss Jane Hood, Mrs. Eleanor Roberts, Miss Kathryn Schnabel, Service Coordination; Miss Barbara Bartley, Miss Alice Chu, Mr. Bennie Durham, Mrs. Freda E. Edwards, Mrs. Sarah M. Kelley, Mr. Russell Mears, Mr. Ernest C. Robinson, Miss Lorraine Schmecker, Dietary; Miss Bertha M. Tompkins, Friends of Deaconess; Mr. Peter Dalton, Miss Clara M. Holloway, Mr. Paul W. Lavallee, Jr., Housekeeping; Mrs. Louise M. Franzosa, Miss Dorothy H. Keller, Blood Bank; Miss Dorothy Holt, I.V. Therapy; Mrs. Judith E. Lewis, Anatomical Pathology; Mrs. Vicki L. Cilento, Miss Hedwig Farris, Miss Jeanne Goldman, Miss Jane L. Gray, Miss Linda E. Hutchins, Miss Anna V. Leahy, Miss Sally J. Morse, Miss Inese Ringmanis, Miss Ellen M. Thompson, Clinical Pathology; Mr. Douglas R. Bower, Jr., Mr. Jenaro Gonzales, Mrs. Maria Johnson, Laundry; Miss Deanna Boyd, Mrs. Catherine O'Hearn, Medical Record Department; Miss Helen J. Pandiscio, Out Patient; Miss Cynthia A. Ashley, Miss Jane L. Bullard, Miss Susan Boland, Miss Jane L. Bullard, Miss Mary Ann Carter, Miss Barbara Case, Mrs. Gladys E. Concannon, Miss Dianne R. D'Amour, Miss Lucy de Las Penas, Miss Ann Downes, Miss Margaret M. Faherty, Miss Frances M. Gaudet, Miss Melissa J. Hanscom, Miss Gloria D. Hayes, Miss Madeleine G. James, Miss Karen D. Jones, Miss Jacqueline A. Kennedy, Miss Diana F. Knowles, Miss Janice Larkin, Miss Patricia J. Lawlor, Miss Judith Leadbitter, Miss Constance H. Loranger, Miss Mary P. Loughlin, Miss Marilyn R. Lydecker, Miss Anne T. MacFarlane, Miss Philomena Maher, Miss Dale M. McLennan, Miss Mary E. McMahon, Miss Nancy Morley, Miss Leslie Murdock, Miss Pamela Rafuse, Miss Sally Rodgers, Miss Peggy A. Salomon, Miss Patricia Shea, Miss Anna C. Smith, Miss Nancy E. Steates, Miss Carole A. Stickney, Miss Sharon Titus, Miss Eileen A. Twomey, Miss Paula L. Vanty, Miss Kerrie A. Van Wyk, Mrs. Grace H. Wyss, Miss Genesta Yates, Staff Nurses in Nursing; Mrs. Ruth W. Carrington, Mrs. Eileen J. Coppola, Miss Loretta G. Gould, Mrs. Louise F. Gregg, Miss Deborah A. Grogan, Miss Marion Harris, Miss Shirlene M. Hutchins, Miss Mariette E. LeBlanc, Mrs. Eartha L. Marshall, Miss Patricia C. Morris, Miss Barbara J. Osborne, Miss Peggy A. Salomon, Miss Janet A. Swanson, Nursing.